EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL.
INTRODUCTORY.

The tenth volume of Carroll's East St. Louis Directory is presented to the people in a new dress, and with many new, it is to be hoped, interesting features. The book is compiled and printed in a style which it is felt by the management will meet with the most favorable criticism by the citizens for whom it is published. Great pains have been taken to select and compile the names of the people, and if any have been omitted, the publisher should not be blamed, as every possible endeavor was put forth to secure every one. The printing and binding of the book it is felt will meet with the approbation and approval of the citizens who are concerned and interested in the work, which is a factor in the promotion of the general interests of the people of our city as a whole. The invaluable services of Mr. R. A. Hackman, who is a thorough directory man, in the compilation of the work, is hereby acknowledged. He has been engaged in the work of preparing directories for many years in many cities in various parts of the United States. It is owing to this fact, through his broad experience in the directory business, that the publishers are enabled to put forth and present to the people of our progressive city a directory which can be relied upon as being thorough in every respect. Yet, the publishers expect no particular commendation for the book. The field is one in which any publisher can work with dignity and pleasure. The East St. Louis of to-day will compare most favorably with any other city in the land for progressiveness and enterprise. No other city has made greater strides within the past decade, and it is claimed that it has even greater prospects for the future, being populated by a people full of unequaled sturdiness and thrift. The mills, the factories, stock business and every kind of commercial industry has doubled, even since the publication of the previous volume. Doubling, however, does not convey the idea when retail business is mentioned. The stores of East St. Louis whose proprietors present their names in any kind of advertising here reap a benefit by the development and enlargement of their trade, which actually astonishes their most intimate friends. Not a single legitimate industry has failed for years, and the merchants, as a whole, stand many per cent. higher in the commercial and financial world than the combined business element of any other city on earth.
Those favorable and laudable advancements, however, it is claimed, are natural results of business conditions in East St. Louis. Surrounded by a government headed by that level-headed gentleman, M. M. Stephens, who knows no course but advancement, and Robert Cunningham, H. Sackman, Edw. Dowling, John Jackson, Louis Knaus, Henry Brueggin, Geo. Mumbower, Martin Felner, Thos. Halpin, Frank Holten, J. M. Sheer, C. G. Derleth, Thos. Mannion, Geo. Lotz, Aldermen, who, having imbied the spirit of progress, willingly assist in pushing on the great enterprises which have and do make East St. Louis the Queen City of Egypt. The government is strong, able and progressive. It is even willing to protect labor, and yet walk hand in hand with Capital to a brilliant Municipal success. The public revenue is expended in an economical way, without the slightest degree of attempting parsimony when employing labor. What with a police department under Herman C. Hauss, and a fire department denominated by a young and enterprising man like Frank Bolte, who ceaselessly work for the benefit of the people. The revenue of the city administered by able hands, and corps of department heads equal in intelligence and ability to any in the country, East St. Louis may well point with pride to her escutcheon, justly marked Excelsior.

In a word, the growth of the town, whose inhabitants now number over 40,000, has been phenomenal, and yet, when the many elements of good government, cheap coal, facilities for manufacturing, excellent schools, fine churches and the several other advantages of East St. Louis are considered, few wonder at the city's marvelous advancement.

Besides the manufacturing and commercial advancement, it seems that East St. Louis has kept pace with leading cities, when other affairs are considered. A number of miles of streets have been paved, graded and sewered; the magnificent library has been carefully guarded, until now its lists of books foot up thousands; the streets have been kept in the best possible condition, and abundant street car facilities have been added, yet what may be said of the general condition of the streets, the treasury, the municipal government as a whole would not compare as a town builder with the Grand City Hall. This building, which was formally dedicated with imposing ceremonies on January 19, 1900, is considered one of the grandest factors for assisting in the advancement of East St. Louis ever inaugurated. It would not be out of place either to say that Mayor Stephens, by his indomitable will, perseverance and energy, erected the grand structure, which, with his other good works in East St. Louis, will long remain a fitting monument testifying his worth as the chief officer of East St. Louis.

East St. Louis Street and Avenue Guide.

Broadway is the dividing line north and south; consequently all numbers on streets running north and south on the north of Broadway must be north, as North Fifth, North Sixth, etc.; while those on the south side are South Fourth, South Fifth, etc.

Cahokia Creek is the dividing line for streets east and west. All streets running east and west on the east side of Cahokia Creek should be marked East Broadway, East Missouri avenue, etc.

As a rule, streets run north and south, or nearly so, while avenues run east and west.

VENICE.

The city of Venice, like its ancient namesake, is so situated that Nature and artificial work can, and do, accomplish much in making it a residence section as well as a manufacturing center. It is pleasingly situated on the east bank of the Mississippi River, opposite the northern business portion of the metropolis of Missouri, and on this account reaps a benefit from the river trade, which is steadily increasing, and promises to become a great factor in the commercial future of the town. Nature has provided a fair spot for this city, and it is felt that the advantages which have been provided will be utilized until Venice, the new Venice, which, like the oft-quoted Phoenix, shall rise and become a power in the business world. No hills, no hollows, no frills of magnitude obstruct the municipal arrangements of the streets, and it is claimed on this account that paving and maintenance of the streets are reduced to a minimum: But it is not on account of location alone of the city in the immediate vicinity of St Louis, or the evenness of its territory, that has awakened a spirit of progress in Venice, but the progressiveness of its Mayor, Dr. J. W. Scott, and the Council—Messrs. Mike Devany, Frank Jennings, Wm. Ballhorn, Mike Clifford, Benj. Perry and James Kerr—assisted and backed by that young element which is the life of any community. Yes, Venice has awakened. The streets which were once mires and puts have been supplanted by thoroughfares which can be compared favorably with any in the land. Electric light, that harbinger of progress, has replaced coal oil, and street cars have pushed the herdics to the wall. Commercial and manufacturing plants have long looked upon the city as a favorable spot for locating, and now that a spirit of progress has taken possession of the city, there is no reason why the expectations of the ardent admirers of the place should not be realized.

In this connection it may be proper to refer to some of the features of the town. Venice has ten railroads running through it in all directions, viz.: Wabash, Big Four, C. B. & Q., Chicago & Alton, I. C., T., St Louis & K. C., St. Louis, Chicago & St. Paul, C., P. & St L., Troy & Eastern, L., E. & St L., besides their terminals, which afford switching and shipping facilities unsurpassed in any part of the Union when considered in connection with the Terminal Railway Association, the V. & C. Belt, and the East St. Louis & C. Belt. These arteries for shipping are not only local, but connect directly with all lines centering on both sides of the river.

Venice as a home for the merchant, professional or business man, is equal to that of any other manufacturing center in the State. It has all the elements which accompany a town of such a character, churches of all denominations, fine schools and progressive teachers, an excellent hospital in the center of the place, and all so located that they are easy of access from all parts of the city. The whole town, too, is but a two-mile ride to the Granite City Branch of the National Enameling & Stamping Works, employing 2000 men, and the Granite Steel Plant, which constantly employs over 2000 hands, the American Steel Works, which hires from 1500 to 2000.

The East Side Branch of the American Core & Foundry Company, employing 1900 men, is but a ten-minute walk from the heart of Venice. Other industries, such as the Pope Glucose Works, the Standard Oil Company, the Barrel Works, employ many men, and all tend to develop and make Venice a Mart, and a proper place in which to own a home or real estate for investment purposes.

Among the advantages for manufacturing are cheap coal, cheap water and cheap land, the principal elements which further manufacturing life. The shipping facilities are unsurpassed by both rail and water, and in a nutshell it is plain that Venice, with coal at eighty cents per ton, a progressive government ever willing to cater to those seeking a home or a factory of any kind, belt lines, water communications and all modern improvements and conveniences, can compete with any place on earth in the manufacturing line. Its Mayor and Council, at any rate, invite the correspondence of those seeking a location, and vouch that the inducements offered will redound to the advantage of Progressive Venice.

FAMOUS SHOE CO. FOR FINE FOOTWEAR.

Cor. Collinsville and Missouri Avenues.
MADISON.

Some time ago the people of surrounding sections referred to the now City of Madison as the little town near Venice, but in the twinkling of an eye, as it were, this designation has been succeeded by the more attractive and deserving term Progressive Madison. It seems but a year or so since the coul-fields east of the Great Father of Waters were invaded by the men with levels and transits and the plat designated Madison was compiled. A few years ago a house here and there marked the spot where now stands one of the most thrifty little cities in Southern Illinois. Many elements conspired to produce this magic transformation. Location, no doubt, played a prominent part in the change, as the residents of Madison enjoy all the advantages of the Great Metropolis of the Mississippi Valley without any of its disadvantages. Where once curled the smoke from the old-fashioned chimney of the farm house now comes volumes from the various factories which have seen fit to locate at Madison by virtue of its many advantages.

The railroad facilities of Madison are second to none in this part of the country, situated as it is at the terminus of the Great Merchants’ Bridge, the people of Madison and its manufacturing interests have communication with the whole world. The trunk and belt lines of the whole east side form a net-work around Madison that gives it all the advantages of St Louis, with a much cheaper cost of water and fuel, which advantage has been readily recognized by the large manufacturing concerns located there.

These elements, assisted by a strong and progressive local government, has made the City of Madison what it is, and through their united efforts large and modern buildings, good streets, electric lights, electric railroads, waterworks and good police and fire protection has made the city not only a good manufacturing town, but a good residence city as well.
That Madison has a good, strong government is evidenced by the fact that its Mayor, Patrick Coyle, and Trustees, Thomas White, Wm. Keown, Patrick Devaney and Gabriel Peppers, and Clerk L. A. Summers, Attorney Thomas Hinde and Treasurer Thomas Houston, present a personnel of officers second to none in the great State of Illinois.

As the proof of the pudding is the eating, so do these men invite an inspection of their city, and any person or persons desiring a good location for either factory or residence will do well to investigate the great advantages of Madison.

Drugs and Chemicals which are liable to deteriorate by age, I buy only in small quantities and I can therefore safely guarantee every ARTICLE obtained at my drug store, whether on a prescription or on a direct sale, to be strictly reliable and of proper medicinal strength. The fact that the prescription department is under my personal supervision, is sufficient assurance of accuracy and dispatch in dispensing physician's prescriptions. Prices to invite patronage. I am sole manufacturer of

ANTICOF,
A COUGH REMEDY that has no equal on the market for pulmonary and throat troubles. It is the result of my life-long experience in the drug business.
